

Edmund HUNT, HOWARD
NATIONAL ASSO-CIATION FOR JUSTICE

IT'S AN ILL WIND . . .

Watergate could become a bonanza for the National Association for Justice, a two-year-old group started by ex-convicts to promote prison reform. Its recruiting began to soar last year when James Hoffa, the paroled former Teamster chief, joined NAJ and became a national spokesman for better prisons. Now the association is soliciting membership applications from former White House officials involved in Watergate and has signed up E. Howard Hunt, the former CIA agent and convicted Watergate burglar.
